The Philippine Eagle, proclaimed the national bird in 1995, is a giant forest raptor endemic to the Philippines and is considered one of the largest and most powerful eagles in the world. It is also one of the rarest and among the most critical endangered vertebrate species.

Good quality education for only ₱50

By Santiago R. Alcantara

COMPARED with the impressive facades of the Br. Andrew Gonzalez Hall and the Enrique Razon Sports Center, another school building of De La Salle University (DLSU) on Taft Avenue, Manila, is hardly noticeable when one views the campus from a Light Rail Transit train.

The size of the nine-story structure, however, belies the big role it plays in the lives of children of preschool age from poor families along Leveriza Street and neighboring areas.

"We're making a difference in the life of the kids and their families by providing them quality education," Maria Fe Ferrer, the coordinator of the preschool, told the Inquirer.

The school charges its students ₱50 each for the whole school year. The amount covers instructional materials, the school uniform and field trip expenses.

"It is a contribution of sorts to make the parents feel that it is not a dole-out. It's our way of letting them know that they have responsibilities [when it comes to] their children," Ferrer said.

The parents also serve as the school's partners in maintaining the building's cleanliness and organizing and looking for venues for activities like Christmas programs and Family Day.

"We talk to the parents all the time. We go to their places or they come here. And they are happy to discover that their children are well taken care of. It feels great because we see that they also learn along with their children," said the early childhood education major who has been teaching at La Salle for nine years.

She added that in a community where everybody knows everyone, it was easy to find out that most of the students' parents did not finish high school and even fewer reached first year college.

Most of the children, however, belong to broken homes or live in the streets. Their fathers work as pedicab drivers, construction workers, security guards or vendors although in some cases, the women are the breadwinners.

"We look at the salaries and the size of the family before we consider them for the program. We tell them: 'You're not qualified because your husband's salary is more than enough.' And they answer back: 'But, teacher, we have seven children.' If you ask for their backgrounds, your findings give you better understanding [of them]," she said.

De La Salle Preschool is the brainchild of the late president of De La Salle, Br. Andrew Gonzalez FSC, who saw it as the school's way of giving back to the community.

The nonprofit school was established under the university's College of Education in 1999 right in the heart of the depressed community of Leveriza. In 2006, it moved to its present location on Fidel Reyes Street.

Ferrer, who helps in the planning and coordination with De La Salle administration, said they strictly observe the 15 pupils-per-class policy. There are four sessions—two each for kindergarten and preparatory.

Smartphone 101 : Part 8

Facebook: Why it's better as an app!

In the 80's we had the phone book. Today, it's Facebook.

Facebook is big in the Philippines. Not only are we the SMS capital of the world, we're also the 4th biggest nation with Facebook accounts. Know what that means? Everyone you know is most probably on Facebook, and since the dawn of the smartphone, you can now use it while you're on the go. Because the free "Facebook for Android" app can be installed on your mobile phone, the world's most popular social network automatically transforms into your address book.

Smartphone owners probably take this for granted, but Facebook for Android is one of the most powerful applications on your device because it really changes the way you treat your phone's address book. Here are a few examples:

Facebook directly syncs with your address book. If you listed your mobile number and email in your Facebook profile, your phone's address book automatically recognizes these as your contact details. It gets better: Every time you change your contact information – updating your email address or your phone number, all your friends with Android smartphones will automatically receive the changes. Gone are the days when you had to SMS all your friends that you changed your contact details. With Facebook for Android, it's automagic!

Facebook for Android is intelligent. It recognizes the names of your friends across under different accounts. If your Android phone is synced with GMail, Facebook for Android will search for similar sounding names and merge the contact information into one field. For instance, if Juan de la Cruz appears on both Facebook and GMail contacts, the device will recognize this to be the same person and merge them into one contact, making it easier for you to organize your friends.

Facebook adds your friends' Events to your phone's calendar. Whenever your friends create events, you can choose to automatically add the event notification to your calendar. That way you're always updated with what's happening around the metro.

You will never lose your address book. Unless you delete your Facebook account, your contact list is preserved forever. If you decide to change phones in the future, you won't need to go through the tedious process of transferring names, numbers and email. Once you login to Facebook, it automatically syncs and downloads all your contacts with their respective information including profile photos and status messages.

Of course, apart from managing your address book and calendar events, Facebook for Android allows you to keep in touch with your friends and enjoy the many features of the social network that took the world by storm.

How to download Facebook for Android

Step 1
Unless it comes pre-installed on your Android device, go to the Android Market place and look for "Facebook for Android". You will need to have an active data connection via SMART's 3G HSPA network or WiFi.

HSPA WiFi

Step 2
Enter your Facebook login credentials.

Step 3
Choose the way you want Facebook to sync with your address book. By default it won't hurt to sync all contacts.

Step 4
Depending on your phone's brand and model, you will be given prompts to "link" or "join" your contacts on Facebook with GMail, Outlook, Yahoo!, etc.

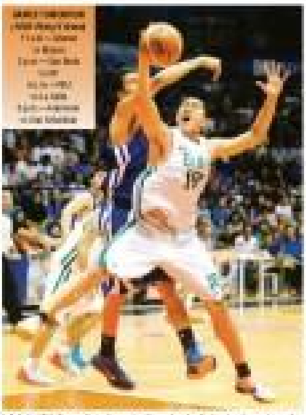

WATCH OUT FOR THE REAL FACEBOOK PHONE!

The HTC ChaCha is the country's first Facebook phone! This Android device comes with added features to make it even easier to share photos, links and keep in touch with your friends. It even has its own Facebook button!

The HTC ChaCha is dancing its way to your hands brought to you only by SMART.

Softer side of MVP, PH's richest eligible bachelor

By Paolo G. Montecillo

HONG KONG—The only thing most people can't imagine Manuel V. Pangilinan doing is sitting at home, enjoying the pleasures of retirement.

But preparing for retirement is exactly what the businessman, philanthropist and avid sports patron Pangilinan is doing.

First Pacific Co. Ltd., the Hong Kong-based holding company that Pangilinan founded in 1981, celebrates its 30th anniversary this month.

"I hate anniversaries. I always have to give speeches and I'm not good at that. I've actually been accused of plagiarism," Pangilinan says in a recent interview, adding that he usually feels "old" in events like these.

Pangilinan, known by his initials MVP, turns 65 this month, making him First Pacific's oldest employee. He won't be retiring just yet as the self-confessed workaholic says there are still three items left on his to-do list that he wants to check off before he cleans out his desk.

The first is to find a young successor that will ensure the group's continued growth over the next 30 years.

The MVP group is unlike other local conglomerates, which are mostly family run. Pangilinan is a bachelor and has no offspring to anoint as heir.

FR. BENIGNO Bernabe Vigo, OSB, Manny Pangilinan, chair of the Metro Pacific Group of Companies and former Health Secretary Dr. Jaime Galvez Tan, president of the San Beda College Alumni Foundation, Inc. during the tree planting ceremony at the Red Lion Living Highway along the North Railways.

"So I want to look for the talent within the company and develop them to be the next leaders of the company," Pangilinan says. "Filipino male (preferably Filipino)," he adds.

This will be a tall order for any young up and comer, given how First Pacific has risen to the top of the Philippine corporate scene. It has controlling interests in leading companies in almost every big industry in the country today.

On top of the list of companies Pangilinan chairs is Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. (PLDT), the leading telecom firm and the country's largest company with nearly $1 billion in annual profits.

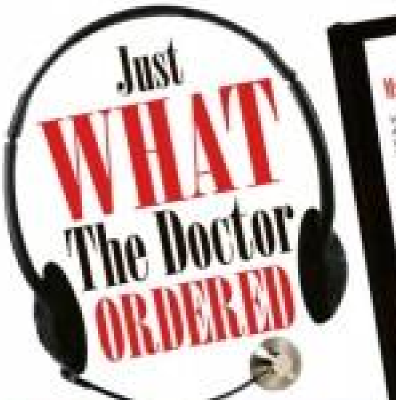

Next is Manila Electric Co. (Meralco), the biggest power distributor and the Philippines' top company in terms of revenues.

Another is Metro Pacific Investments Corp., the company that runs North Luzon Expressway, as well as interests in water distribution and healthcare.

Outside the Philippines, the First Pacific unit Indofood Sukses Makmur Tbk is now Indonesia's largest food company.

And Pangilinan has done all this virtually on his own. Indonesia's Salim family financially

The 7 Cs of the Chevrolet Captiva

By Alvin Uy

THE Chevrolet Captiva was inspired from GM's Chevrolet's S3X concept crossover SUV using General Motor's Theta platform. The S3X Concept Car had its premiere in the Paris Motor Show about six years ago and subsequently was developed and marketed worldwide as the Captiva model. It is the most saleable vehicle for Chevrolet Philippines and for good reason. Inquirer Motoring has listed seven virtues of the Chevrolet Captiva and why it has become the brand's most popular model as of date.

1 Convenience

With standard features like the electronic release glass tailgate access, folding side/rear mirrors, back up sensors, rain sensor and even a rear park assist that has a back up camera on board, it offers optional safety and convenience features usually present only in high-end luxury SUVs.

2 Configurable

The Captiva optimizes the use of cargo and cabin space with a true 7-seater SUV and includes a spacious third row which can be fully folded to allow more cargo room at the back. Its ergonomically designed folding seats offer ample legroom and intelligent layout that fits various lifestyle. Its 60/40 split configuration for the 2nd row and 50/50 split for its 3rd row gives maximum flexibility when handling various cargo and passenger combinations.

3 Cool gadgets and Chic interior

With its electronic climate control, projector headlamp auto-level, twilight sentinel, iPod and Bluetooth ready 7-inch TFT High Definition touch screen mobile entertainment system with GPS navigation paired with a semi-aniline and chic interior looks make the Captiva look and feel cool.

4 Comfortable and Safe

Even with a tall vehicle like the Captiva, its suspension offers very good controls as well as excellent cabin comfort and the ride is among the best in class. Small details like cup holders and other utility pockets give creature comfort even for long haul driving. With safety features like ESP Electronic Stability Program, ABS (Antilock Brake System) and dual airbags add a large margin of safety for both driver and passenger.

5 Cavernous Cargo

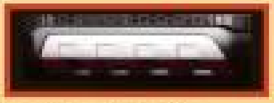

With its compelling engine power and performance, the Captiva's interior cargo room offers one of the biggest interior space in its class. If it is not enough, the standard roof rails offers added overhead storage.

Whether for city daily driving or a weekend getaway vehicle, the Captiva offers a highly flexible platform with enough muscle and brute force for more adventurous off-road drives from time to time. Its compact size coupled with a spacious interior has the dual advantage of nimbleness and maneuverability coupled with excellent cabin space that offers a comfortable and spacious interior.

6 Competent

Fitted with an attractive front skid plate and adequate ground clearance together with its active on demand AWD variant, the Captiva is able to handle rough off-road conditions while its 5-speed tiptronic automatic transmission mated with its 2.0L CRDi Variable Geometry turbo diesel or 2.4L DOHC Ecotec CVVT gas engine performs well on-road and off-road. The automatic transmission intelligently shifts according to the road and driving conditions offering optimal torque and balancing it with fuel efficiency.

7 Competitive and Cost Efficient

Aside from its attractive prices in all the four variants, its (factory) estimated fuel consumption for both diesel and gas models are above par with cars in its class. It is also the most affordable true 7-seater in the market today.

Chevrolet Ph reveals plans for expansion

THERE is always something in the works to move the Chevrolet brand further.

SUCCESS in the recently-concluded Car of the Year Awards where Chevrolet Cruze was named as the ultimate title-bearer and a recorded 39 percent sales growth from the first quarter of the year might seem like enough good news to rest your laurels on. But for The Covenant Car Company, Inc. (TCCCI)-exclusive distributor of Chevrolet vehicles, parts and accessories in the Philippines, there is always something in the works to move the Chevrolet brand further and to always be true to the company's commitment to serve its clientele with excellent products and services.

So what's next for Chevrolet Philippines? In response to a consistent growth in sales, of which 54 percent was recorded from 2009 to 2010, and seeing a better opportunity to provide efficient and readily available parts and service, TCCCI is happy to announce that aside from the 13 dealerships already in existence, it has signed on to an additional seven (7) more MOU (memorandum of understanding) with new and existing dealer partners that signifies more Chevy dealerships in key areas all over the Philippines.

Some of these new generation dealerships have in fact already been opened to the public. The Philadelphia Business Ideas Inc.'s (PBII) dealership along Greenhills EDSA serves up 3,693.12 sq. meters of first class Chevrolet facilities and will be used as a beacon for future Chevrolet dealerships not just in the country, but throughout the entire South-east Asian region as well as a pinnacle of Chevrolet's latest brand image and global standard.

Chevrolet shall also have a new face in Cebu. The New Chevrolet Cebu represented by Genesis Motors Corporation with the support of Chevrolet Philippines. The Covenant Car Company Inc. CRYSTAL Room of The Establishment

Honored by the Church

CEBU CEBU

Jaime Picornell

CANDLES FLICKERED at the altar and the huge chandelier hanging at the central nave sparkled like crystal sun rays. They reflected all the gilt adornments on the main altar and canopied throne at the Cebu Metropolitan Cathedral, spruced up for a solemnity that rarely occurs.

Nine distinguished ladies from the Cebu community were to be installed as Dames of the Order of St. Sylvester. This is one of five orders of knighthood awarded directly by the Pope as Supreme Pontiff of the Catholic Church, and as head of state of the Vatican City.

Heavenly music floated down from the choir loft as the choral group of the University of the Visayas intoned hymns of praise. It was a sign for the congregation to rise as the processional flowed down the aisle. First to appear was Dame Norma Lim Liu, the first Cebuana to be given the honor by Pope Benedict XVI.

Then followed the ladies who were inducted into the fold, in alphabetical order: Aniza Esmeralda [illegible], Julie Ramos [illegible], Rose Marie Espina Garcia, Conchita Gonzalez Go, Lourdes de Leon Arcena, Lourdes Villasin Consuegra Lee, Anita Yu Sanchez, Hilda Mendoza Solon and Monique [illegible] Young.

The clergy in cortege followed with His Grace the Archbishop of Cebu Msgr. Jose Palma. With everyone in his place, the rites began with a holy mass. The homily was delivered by His Eminence Ricardo Cardinal Vidal, Archbishop Emeritus of Cebu.

The Cardinal was forceful, firm and infallibly eloquent. Of course, he touched on the issue of the day. And yet, if one listened carefully, the topic of the sermon could be summed up in one simple statement: Morality is the perfection of freedom.

The installation ceremony followed, with Archbishop Palma seated on a throne, to hand out the medals of the Order of St. Sylvester. The names were called out by Msgr. Cristobal Garcia. The ladies all wore black silk gowns, black lace mantillas and long black velvet capes trimmed with golden braids.

The mass proceeded with more stirring music, prayers participated in by all present, and an overwhelming communion ritual. For the awardees, there were photo opportunities at the altar after the concluding benediction.

There followed a reception and dinner at the grand ballroom of the Marco Polo Plaza Hotel, attended by more than 500 guests.

The awardees sat at a round table together with Cardinal Vidal, Archbishop Palma, Gov. Gwendolyn Garcia, Cebu City Mayor Michael Rama and Rep. Ben Hur Salimbangon.

A brief program hosted by Mary Rose Villacorte [illegible] highlighted the occasion, and opened with a song by Kristin Lapinid [illegible]. Welcome remarks were delivered by Archbishop Palma.

A rationale for the choice of awardees was given, citing their merits. Most of them are involved in parish work, feeding programs for the poor, making donations to worthy projects, giving support for seminarians, and excellence in their chosen professions.

Cardinal Vidal was asked to impart a message. He was lighthearted this time, promising not to mouth the "issue." What he did stand was Christian charity, as exemplified by the awardees. He said it is based on the premise of "Love one another, as Jesus Christ said, and did."

The response on behalf of the awardees came from Dame Lourdes "Odette" Arcena, who humbly said, "Why me?" She has the gift of gab, that's why. She expressed everyone's feeling that the award had indeed humbled them.

"This is not the culmination of our lives, but rather the start of a long way to go as servants of the church, and to do more for those who need us," she said.

At any given time there may be only 500 knights and dames of the Order of St. Sylvester around the world. Only death can create a vacancy. The honor used to be granted only to men.

Blessed Pope John Paul II during his reign extended membership to women. Cardinal Vidal, before retiring as archbishop of Cebu, sent a long list of nominees from Cebu. Only nine ladies were chosen.

Nine distinguished Cebu ladies are installed as Dames of the Order of St. Sylvester

AT THE Bencab opening: Julie Alegrado Vergara, Raul Arambulo, National Artist Ben Cabrera, Raffaella Pelaez and Honorary Consul General of Austria Amadio Alegrado

Bencab and his art come to Cebu

The Shangri-La Bluewater resort in Mactan island has an art gallery committed to promoting Philippine artists. In progress since May 13 is the first solo show in Cebu of National Artist Ben Cabrera.

The opening took place amid a large gathering of art collectors and patrons. Some had come earlier than the appointed time, the better to view the exposition in advance.

Cutting the ceremonial ribbon were Raffaella Pelaez and Raul Arambulo, together with Bencab himself.

Very much present were members of the family that owns Shangri-La Bluewater: Honorary Consul General of Austria Amadio "Dodong" Alegrado and his wife Marie, daughter Julie Alegrado Vergara, who is Honorary Vice Consul of Austria, her husband Vic Vergara, who is the art gallery's director, and younger daughter Jean Alegrado, who with her usual charm attended to the prominent guests.

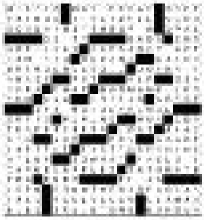

Julie Vergara hosted the brief program that marked the event. "Mr. Consul Alegrado has ordered the full moon tonight," he said. Everyone gazed up and clapped as the moon peeked through the palm fronds.

The exhibit "Bencab: Life Drawings" consists of 30 works on paper done in charcoal and pastel shades of color.

They were done between 2009 and the present, kept as a collection in the artist's Baguio studio.

Bencab at Shangri-La Bluewater is on up to June 15. Gallery hours are from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily.

2011 McDonald's Kiddie Crew Workshop: Breaking Records with over 23,000 Participants

This 2011, a record-breaking number of over 23,000 kids from all over the country participated and graduated from the McDonald's Kiddie Crew Workshop. A series of Grand Graduations were held in four major cities all over the country - Metro Manila, Laguna, Cebu and Davao - for all Kiddie Crew members and their families as a culmination and celebration of their summer adventure at McDonald's.

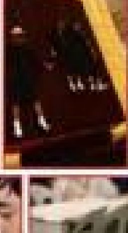

Truly an experience to remember, the Grand Graduations were the perfect way to cap off McDonald's annual summer workshop, treating Kiddie Crew members to exciting booths, fun games, and tons of cool freebies. Ronald and the Gang, together with host Ms. Jackie Lou Blanco and McDonald's Kid Ambassador Ellian Ward, also joined the fun and made the Grand Graduations even more special with an action-packed show that everyone enjoyed.

From the entire McDonald's family, congratulations to all Kiddie Crew graduates of 2011! We hope to see you again next year for an even bigger and better McDonald's Kiddie Crew Workshop.

LOS ANGELES—After working in bars and doing odd jobs for many years, Michael Fassbender is suddenly the hottest actor on the block. The male equivalent of Jessica Chastain, who's in several important projects this year, Michael is likewise very visible onscreen.

Michael's roles and the directors he's working with are quite impressive: He's Erik Lehnsherr/Magneto in Matthew Vaughn's "X-Men: First Class"; Carl Jung in David Cronenberg's "A Dangerous Method"; Rochester in Cary Fukunaga's "Jane Eyre"; a sex addict in (British artist/filmmaker) Steve McQueen's "Shame," and a spy in Steven Soderbergh's "Haywire."

Next year, he'll be seen in Ridley Scott's "Prometheus," as well as in Jim Jarmusch's untitled project and Lisa Barros D'Sa and Glenn Leyburn's "Good Vibrations."

The good breaks mean a lot to the Germany-born and Ireland-raised Michael. "All I really wanted to do was act," he said. "I guess things started really changing for me when I got 'Hunger' in 2008. It happened at the right time. A recession was about to
